LONDON, March 26—Prime Minister Chamberlain retired for a long week-end today to study the disquieting dual problem of staunch labor opposition to his foreign policy and the necessity of getting cooperation of the same group to speed up rearmament.The National Council of Labor, central body of British labor, yesterday declared continuance in office of Chamberlain's conservative government a "grave menace to the peace of Europe," and demanded an immediate meeting of the League of Nations assembly to consider "appeasement" of European problems."Disregard of Democracy" Chamberlain's attitude, the council declared, was a "cynical disregard of the need for defending democracy."At the same time the group, backbone of the opposition labor party,
was believed willing to join a treasonous conference among government, employers and employees to produce armaments on a tremendously accelerated scale.In common lobbies it was proposed the government's proposed armaments increase might reach 50 per cent, raising the current $150,000,000 five-year program to $112,000,000.Labor's cooperation—necessary to Chamberlain if he succeeded in the armament speed-up—would be given, reliable sources said, because Chamberlain had impressed labor leaders with private information that Britain was arming solely against Germany.Political commentators, however, said Chamberlain ran the risk of being forced into too many political concessions in order to gain
labor's support in the gun factories.
The prime minister and Sir Thomas Inskip, defense coordinating minister, meanwhile went ahead
with plans for a meeting Monday with the national confederation of employers' organizations. At this meeting they intended to ask the cooperation of employers.

Efforts to force release of three employees of an American oil company subsidiary in Tampico, Mexico, are being made by Lawrence S. Armstrong, U. S. consul in as hostages by workers claiming back pay when foreign-owned oil lands were expropriated by decree

To Salmon Fishing
In American WatersWASHINGTON, March 26—A formal note from Japan gave the United States assurance today that Japanese salmon fishing in Alaskan waters would be ended.American fishermen had complained that the Japanese were depleting the salmon resources, threatening the continued existence of the Alaskan salmon industry which employs 25,000 persons.Japan's note advised that she was suspending her three-year salmon fishing survey begun in 1935, that she would not issue licenses for salmon fishing off Alaska and that she would punish her citizens who fished without licenses.In a note last Nov. 22 the United States called Japan's attention to the "seriousness of the problem."Jubilation of the American salmon industry over the Japanese announcement was overshadowed by a wage controversy which already has delayed start of this year's work several weeks.Operators said they might not fish this year unless the Canned Salmon Industry's demand that five cents take a 10 per cent wage cut is met. They said large stocks on hand made the cut imperative.Secretary of Labor Perkins yesterday appointed a mediator.WPA Road Project

the grant, stated the President's approval did not necessarily mean that the money could be used. It was described as "insurance" to be held in reserve in case the county-wide project on which a majority of county WPA workers are employed, should be completed before the termination of the federal pro-

IS ELECTROCUTEDExpresses hope for "More Humane System of Penology"(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, March 26—A convict, who admitted "I never had the courage to live decently," left behind today a 650-word indictment of the penal system and society, which sent him to the electric chair.Everett Jones of Springfield amazed witnesses in Ohio penitentiary's death house last night when,
in a subdued but firm voice, he read for five minutes from a prepared statement.

Goes Calmly to Death

Then he calmly seated himself
in the electric chair and received the supreme penalty for shooting
to death Robert Lindsey, a Jeffersonville pool room proprietor, in a holdup last July 4."Ohio, I am a product of your prisons," Jones read. He had lived 19 of his 33 years in penal and correctional institutions."Who can blame me?" he asked.
"The very fact that I hated these things shows I was fundamentally decent. The robberies I committed outside were moral protests. I felt that society had treated me rotten-ly.""I saw around me a lot of lucky, indifferent people, outside of prison only by the laws of chance."The doomed man said that "somehow, I have never considered myself entirely responsible for the robberies that sent me back to prison," explaining that "tensions far beyond the power of any human being to withstand were forced upon me.""If only I had had a single understanding friend when I was young," he exclaimed. "If my mother hadn't died, if my father had been a pal, with just a minimum chance I could have made a comfortable place for myself in the world."Sees More Humane Methods Jones expressed belief that in the near future "a more humane method of penology will be evolved" and "it will not then be necessary to lock thousands of men in cells and permit them to rot their days away
in idleness."Ohio penitentiary, built to house 2,500 prisoners, now holds more than 4,200.Jones termed his death "a crucifixion, not an execution," contending "I have given my life for a friend."Walter Barnes, 19, who assisted Jones in the holdup and received a life sentence for second degree murder, informed the state clemency board a week ago that he killed the pool room operator. But the board refused to believe him.Jones, who originally accepted responsibility for the actual killing,

Ask Judgment

LISBON, March 26—County commissioners have filed an action in common pleas court seeking a declaratory judgment against the Pennsylvania Railroad Co. in connection with the disputed overhead bridge on the New Waterford road in Unity township.The bridge, closed for several weeks, has been the bone of contention in an argument between railroad officials and county authorities. Both parties to the controversy maintain the bridge is the responsibility of the other.

IN SENATE BOUTFoes of Reorganization Measure Admit Lack
Of Votes(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, March 26—Defeated consistently on proposed amendments, some senate foes of the administration's government reorganization bill conceded today they lacked the votes to kill the measure.A vote on a motion to recommit
the bill to committee, a step which would effectively pigeon-hole it—has been set for 3 p. m. Monday.
If the motion fails, there will be a vote on passage of the measure
at 5 p. m.Barkley, Barnes Optimistic
Some opponents of the measure said privately that unless there was a shift of sentiment by Monday, the recommitment motion would fail. Senators Barkley of Kentucky, the Democratic leader, and Byrnes (D-SC), author of the bill, confidently predicted its passage.Senator Clark (D-Mo), an opponent, asserted, however, that he was "very hopeful" the bill would be shelved.Two portions of the bill—creation of a welfare department and authorization for employment of six presidential assistants—already have been approved in the house.
Byrnes said it was possible that the senate bill might be substituted for one of these measures and sent directly to a conference between senate and house representatives. This would expedite final action.

WASHINGTON, March 26—Senator Norris (Ind-Neb) said today
he thought a congressional investigation of the Tennessee Valley Authority could be completed before congress adjourns."There is no reason why it cannot be so organized that a report will be ready before adjournment," the white-haired Nebraskan said.Some others in congress among both critics and supporters of TVA were less hopeful, however, of that speed.Senate Majority Leader Barkley
of Kentucky has predicted adjournment by May 15.House May Vote Tuesday Administration leaders said the house probably would vote Tuesday
or Wednesday on investigating TVA. Chairman O'Connor (D-NY)
of the rules committee has called hearings for Monday on all resolutions for investigation of the agency, including that adopted by the senate yesterday.Some committee members said
there was a possibility, however, that the proposed hearings would be dropped.Norris predicted the house would approve the senate resolution which provides for a joint committee—five from the senate and five from the house—to make the investigation. He also said he expected the President would sign it promptly.Speculation was rife as to who would be named to the committee.
The resolution left unrestricted appointment powers in the hands of Vice President Garner and Speaker Bankhead.Norris asserted his strategy in refusing to serve because he was the author of the original resolution had blocked appointment of Senators King (D-Utah) and Bridges (R-NH), TVA critics who also offered resolutions."Neither Bridges nor King will be on the committee," Norris said with confidence.The Nebraska said hearings in the Tennessee Valley Area were possible.Norris expressed confidence the investigation would fail to disclose
"any fraud or dishonesty" on the part of the three directors, whose cumbler quarrel led to President Roosevelt's dismissal of Dr. Arthur
E. Morgan as chairman.BOYCOTT DRIVE

Restore Wage Cuts

COLUMBUS, March 26—Resto-

largely responsible for increasing the per pupil cost of education in average total per pupil expense was claims were allowed. The interest

FAIR TERMS FOR THE SOUTH

President Roosevelt has said wages in the south must not be kept unnaturally low. He does well to speak out where it hurts, while he's in the south.

His purpose is to short-circuit southern congressmen by going over their heads to speak to their constituents. The southern bloc is opposing his wage-hour bill. Most northerners opposed to federal control of enterprises are fighting it, too. But, if the south wants to keep wages low, the north will have to insist on protection. That's fundamental.

If the south competes with the north for industries, it must compete on fair terms. Mr. Roosevelt may start another civil war by saying so, but he's on solid ground. Northern workmen aren't going to wave goodbye to Dixie-bound industries hunting cheap labor without feeling peevish. Southern workmen aren't going to greet such industries without feeling the same way.

If northern industries want to go south because they like the climate or the hospitality, all well and good. No one can stop them. If they want to fly away south to keep a rendezvous with cheap labor, kept that way deliberately by southern development interests, they're going to find increasing opposition. Enterprise which falls for such shoddy bait can't expect much sympathy from its customers, most of whom live in the north. Eventually, the inefficiency which goes with low wages would take care of the situation, but that's too long to wait.

Before that, there would be legislative action to wipe out unnatural wage differentials between the north and south. It would be too bad for all concerned if that had to be done, but it's what the south will make necessary if it tries to cheat on wages.

AND IN THE MEANTIME

While congress tunes up ponderous machinery to discover what causes those strange rumors inside Tennessee Valley Authority and Dr. Arthur E. Morgan considers how best to take his case to court, the question of who is to succeed the doctor on the TVA board is boiling.

The same question came up once before, when Hugo L. Black was appointed to the supreme court to fill the shoes of a member who didn't see things the way his critics thought he should see them. In that case, the job was to find a man who could be counted on always to see things the right way, a qualification which caused Mr. Black's appointment to be viewed with a good deal of curiosity and some distaste. Already, Mr. Black has disagreed, not only with the conservatives, but with the liberals, too.

In this case, there being only three members on the TVA board, the appointee will have to be willing to grant that since the other two cannot be wrong, he must be wrong, therefore, whenever he disagrees with either of them.

It will be interesting to see the man who's willing to take a job on which all the thinking will be done for him by his two associates, who constitute an apparently permanent majority.

OLD DOGS OLD TRICKS

A reorganization plan which doesn't hold out any hope of saving money, yet goes through the senate as though being pulled behind a steamroller, is a puzzle.

Attempts to slow down the steamroller have been flattened out one by one. On Thursday, the Byrd amendment, to prevent substitution of an auditor general who would keep track of money after it's spent, instead of while it's being spent, was ploughed under.

It's plain that executive reorganization according to the administration's plan isn't going to save a dime. No one claims it will. So that's not the motive for going ahead with it. On the other hand, the bill has been attacked as an authority grab which would increase the presidential power enormously, but wouldn't add an iota to the ordinary efficiency of the government as a whole. This allegation never has been denied.

What is it, then, that sends the bill skidding through the senate? What could it be, except an indication that the rubber stamp habit, having been so firmly entrenched from 1933 up to the fight on the court reorganization bill, has sneaked up on its former victims again?

NOBODY WAS WRONG

There's a vision countless mothers and fathers, policemen and other persons who think about traffic in terms of life and death have these warm spring days.

A child is playing. He feels so good in the warm air he scarcely can contain himself. There are a thousand things to be done, all tremendously important to him—and all of them tremendously important to those who love him.

The world is a beautiful place, full of delights and surprises. He is in a hurry to experience all of them. In his hurry he doesn't notice that his little legs have carried him over the curbing into the street.

He doesn't see the automobile approaching. Perhaps its driver is in a hurry, too. There is a scream of terror, the ominous whine of skidding wheels, then silence.

It can happen. It does happen. Frequently it's not the driver's fault. But it's not the child's fault, either. It just happens the circumstances were wrong. That's why there is special need in spring, when children are in an unusually big hurry to enjoy life, to protect them.

THE STARS SAY:

For Sunday, March 27

Sunday's horoscope may not be considered an entirely favorable one, as there are omens of a suddenly precipitated situation that may mean disruption, disturbance, undesirable change or a journey.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for some situation of a surprising, possibly unpleasant, nature. This may mean an unwelcome or unprofitable change or journey, together with quarrels, tumult and other disagreeable factors.

A child born on this day may have an adventurous, wilful and turbulent nature. However, over-aggressive and aggravating aspirations may lead it in difficult and dangerous channels. Early training and direction might moderate these tendencies, and turn fine creative energies into profitable avenues.

For Monday, March 28

According to Monday's astrological forecast, this may be a splendid day for progress, advancement and prosperity, with the assurance of the attainment of many cherished aspirations in social as well as business circles. This propitious condition may come as a token of faithful and intelligent service, with the probability of recognition in a public manner or position.

Those whose birthday it is may be assured of a year of fine openings for advancement, preferment, honors and financial prosperity. These may come from high places as a reward of good and faithful service, intelligence and high purpose. It may lead to public prestige as well as social popularity.

A child born on this day may be extremely versatile, efficient, responsible and ambitious, attracting those in power who may assist it to a place in public service.

HITLER WARNS WORLD HE CAN'T BE STOPPED

KOENIGSBERG. Germany, March 26—The world should be warned today that Reichsfuehrer Hitler had set his course and no power in the world could induce him to leave his chosen path.

The German chancellor launched his nationwide plebiscite tour in this far eastern corner of greater Germany yesterday with the firm-voiced assertion:

"What we once possess we will never under any circumstances surrender."

Nazi party big wigs joined the fuehrer today in his campaign to convince the masses that his action of March 13—resulting in Austrian union with Germany—was the "fulfillment of a thousand-year-old dream."

Hitler himself was scheduled to speak again tonight at Leipzig, and in Berlin Monday.

Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering, his right-hand man, also was to speak in Vienna tonight.

Fifteen hundred meetings in two weeks was the plebiscite campaign tempo set for Franconia province so that the "last person in the last hamlet in the most isolated spot shall know what the issue is."

Julius Streicher, a leader of the anti-Semitic campaign, is the Franconia district leader.

NORTH BEND, Ore.—A campaign to spread truth throughout the world by telling all the lies has been started by the North Bend Kiwanis club. When all lies are told there will be nothing left to cause worry and uneasiness, they believe.

HEALTH

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland, New York City.

BABY'S HEALTH

FOR YEARS it has been known that iron is a mineral salt essential to good health. It has always been regarded as a necessary requirement for proper nutrition and physical development. But it is only within recent years that the tremendous importance of this mineral in the growth and development of the infant has been fully realized.

Attention was called by the experts to the considerable amounts of iron stored in the liver at birth. Undoubtedly this is a nature's method of providing protection and making sure there shall always be an adequate supply. It must not be forgotten that this mineral is essential at all times and especially during the first year of life.

Whenever iron is lacking or is had in insufficient amounts, a severe anemia develops. This is frequently encountered during the first year of life. It is especially prevalent among so-called premature infants who have an insufficient iron reserve at their command. It is also found in full-term infants who are deprived of an iron supply by reason of some constitutional deficiency in the mother during the period before the child's birth.

Not Much Stored
It used to be believed that the liver stored much iron during the fetal period and early childhood. It is now known that this is not so. In fact, research shows that the amount of this mineral stored in the diet of the mother is low in iron. It has been learned that at the end of six months the amount of reserve iron in the liver may be markedly reduced. Unless this mineral element is supplied to the infant, it can readily be seen how the normal growth and development of the child will be impaired. If the infant is breast-fed it is important that the diet of the mother contain an adequate source of this element. In addition, the infant may be given supplementary feedings which are prepared with a special emphasis on the iron content.

The bottle-fed baby must be assured of milk from a source rich in iron and other valuable minerals. In addition, other foods rich in minerals must be added to the diet at an early age. For example, fruit juices and cod liver oil may be given at a very early age. Cereals and strained vegetables are valuable sources of iron and other mineral substances.

Services In Our Churches

Emmanuel Lutheran Services Tomorrow Listed by Minister

Services tomorrow for the Emmanuel Lutheran church, 231 South Broadway, as announced by Rev. John Bauman, pastor, are as follows:

The Sunday school with classes for all ages meets at 9 a. m. Rev. Schaefer, superintendent. At the divine worship services at 10 a. m., the pastor will preach the fourth sermon in the series on "Dead and Alive, Lost and Found." Luke 15: 11-32.

The theme for this Sunday's sermon is, "Homeward Bound." While our aim of having 400 people present at our Sunday morning services was not quite realized, still the attendance was very good and proved a source of joy to all present and an inspiration to the pastor. If you have no church home, we invite you to come and attend to your soul's need. We extend our invitation with deep concern for your welfare. The church can get along without you, but you cannot live happily nor die peacefully without the message of the church. And therefore we earnestly ask you, come and worship with us.

German services at 11 a. m. Thought For Lent

Jesus gave His all for me. "Greater love hath no man than that he lay down his life for his brethren." Well has the singer said, "I gave my life for thee—my precious blood I shed."

Some regard some things, others other things as priceless. There is no good that Jesus did not sacrifice in our behalf.

Of wealth: He was the boundless possessor, yet for our sake did He become poor—"For the son of man hath not where to lay his head."

Of honor: He was supreme, yet He made Himself of no reputation and took upon Him the form of a servant.

Of friends and servants he claimed the angelic hosts, "Yet He was despised and rejected of men." He was the life of men—yet went into death "to pay the ransom for many."

But Lent emphasizes "Jesus gave His All." Is view of this all sacrificing love are we not challenged? Are we not moved to respond? Truly gratitude will rise in every breast that is capable of feeling and meditating on what has been given. So much the savior gave for us—what can we give in turn?

Do we need the question with so many in the world yet unsaved, with the church hampered in its great mission for lack of means, with the unanswered cries of the needy, sick, and sin laden?

What can I give you ask. Your conscience tells you, and your Lord reminds you "I gave my life for thee."

There are some wrong ideas of religion. It is quite necessary that these misconceptions be corrected. Religion is more than an outward form. It is not the kind of clothes you wear nor the type of speech you use that makes you a Christian.

It is your faith and life that really counts. Real religion is something deep within the soul that comes out in daily living. Religion carries heavy responsibility.

Jesus went the second mile. Not because of necessity was Jesus kind and merciful. The death upon the cross was voluntarily accepted by Jesus. Religious people do not sidestep Christian responsibility.

Morning worship, 11—Sermon.
Lent is a time for deep devotion and heart searching. It is a time when daily recourse to the Word of God, aids the Christian to ponder "the deep things of God." While we do not condemn fasting "as an external discipline" still we consider spiritual preparation a thousand-fold more important. Diligently searching the heart, we must apply the gospel message that we may grow in grace and in the knowledge of God.

"I gave my life for Thee. My precious blood I shed. That thou might ransom me. And quickened from the dead; I gave, I gave my life for thee. What hast thou given for me?"

200 Attend Eastern Star's Annual Inspection Program

Approximately 200 members of Salem chapter No. 334, Order of Eastern Star, visiting O. E. S. members and guests, enjoyed the 27th anniversary celebration last night in the temple.

A dinner was served at 7 p. m. Guests were conducted into the dining hall by Mrs. John W. Archibald, chapter marshal, carrying the chapter colors. White gaiters with ferns on pedestals formed an entrance to the hall.

Decorations, carried out in green and white, included canopy ceiling and chair back covers in green and white. White hyacinths and carnations and small ferns and narrow runners of green and white made the tables attractive. Green candles in crystal holders were used, duplicated in miniature in the place favors. Little booklets at each place announced the menu and program.

Miss Mary McCarty led prayer before the dinner, which was served by the Macons. Dinner and program were in charge of the March grand committee, headed by Mrs. Theodore Jewell.

"EXTRA FARE"

by Edna Robb Webster

SYNOPSIS

Jaxie Cameron, lovely young newspaper columnist, travels west from Chicago aboard the Big Chief, extra-fare train, in search of copy for the Star-Tribune's "Friendly Corner." Inside Car 74X, she spots a bride and groom, and notices a girl who she later finds is Clarice Cole, ex-waitress bound for Hollywood. Carrie Dade, a worn young mother with two small children, arouses Jaxie's sympathy. But the most interesting passenger on the train—at least to Miss Cameron—is Kirby Elliott, tall and gray-eyed and humorous. As dusk deepens, these two remain talking on the observation platform. Mose, the porter, is busy pacifying Mrs. Sanders, a demanding old woman who shares Section 6 with Elliott, and explaining travel technique to Jake Weatherby, gaunt mid-west farmer unused to luxury trains. An unassuming little man in khaki sits reading. . . . Finally all the passengers are settled for the night—but not all of them to sleep. Kirby Elliott, in upper 6, remembers Jaxie's brown eyes, bronze hair, and husky-sweet voice. The next morning, Marie Borin, the bride, and Clarice Cole are thrilled to meet Jaxie, a newspaper woman whose name is a household word. Also present are the Misses Yates and Colbin, middle-aged school teachers on a holiday. While the train stops at Kansas City, Clarice meets the handsome man in No. 3 who has remained aloof till then. Here, too, Jake Weatherby's wife, Marthy, boards the train, bringing with her the startling news that half a million in bonds had been stolen from a Chicago bank the previous day. The thief is believed to be on a westbound train. Part of those stolen bonds belong to Marthy and Jake! More than ever Jaxie, like the trained reporter she is, watches everything and everybody around her.

CHAPTER XI

But this special train of people was an entity out of the whole world of space and time—for three days. The significance of the thought impressed Jaxie of her surroundings were affected especially by the manner in which a pair of laughing blue eyes had met hers in the dim light of the observation porch on the previous night. She could not efface from her thoughts the memory of those eyes. They looked at her from every place she turned, and filled her with a delicious sense of expectation. She wondered how he would greet her when they met again.

It developed that she was the one who did the greeting. On returning to her car she reached her section just in time to witness a little drama taking place across the aisle. A glance revealed the situation. Obviously Kirby had breakfasted early and returned to his section with the intention of doing some work for which he required a table. The woman in lower 6 had been absent somewhere when he had discretely Mose to set up the table, and had returned just before Jaxie came in, to overhear Kirby's confused apology.

"I beg your pardon, Madam. If the table is in your way, I'll have it taken out at once. I thought perhaps you wouldn't mind my doing a little work this morning."

"Well, I do mind, and you might have been considerate enough to consult me about it, first. I want to sleep now, which I can't very well do if you have a table in here."

Kirby laughed easily. Of course, no one could sleep under such conditions. Sorry I intruded. He rang for the porter. Mose came inquiringly.

"Guess I won't need this table, after all," Kirby explained, collecting his sorted papers. "Take it out, will you porter?"

"Porter," a girl's voice interrupted them from behind. "Will you set the table up in my section? I'm working also, this morning. And," Jaxie added kindly, meeting Kirby's

"You may be this bank robber escaping to the coast."

eyes, "if you wish, you may sit across with me and use the same table, Mr. Elliott."

"Thanks, Miss Cameron. That's most kind of you. You are sure you need the table and that I shan't disturb you?"

She laughed. "I've certainly got to write my column which goes back to Chicago from La Junta tonight; and as for your disturbing me, if you know anything about the panorama of a city room, you should have no fear of that."

With deft movements Mose had transferred the table to section 5, and presently the two were seated on either side of it, facing each other with their respective papers strewn over the table between them. But it was obvious that neither was seriously concerned about work.

"Where were you this morning?" he asked. "I missed you everywhere, even when we stopped at Kansas City."

"I had a glimpse of you hurrying out of the station, then I went in to breakfast as soon as the train started. I've been all this time in the dining car."

"Then you are not on a diet," he guessed.

"No," laughed Jaxie, "but I was not gormandizing on food. I was only devouring the atmosphere—eating on a train, studying human nature and reading a newspaper that wasn't printed in Chicago."

"Sounds as if you had an interesting morning. Too bad you can't teach old Mrs. Grouch across the aisle how to live." He glanced across at Mrs. Sanders, busy with adjusting her pillows and window shades. He winked roguishly at Jaxie. "I'll bet she doesn't sleep a wink, now that she has the place all to herself."

Jaxie laughed. "She's welcome to all the sleep she wants. I don't intend to miss more than I have to, that way. Poor thing—she probably has made this trip so many times, she would rather miss it all. You should feel sorry for her."

"Yeah, I imagine the people who are to be afflicted by her arrival somewhere are gnashing their teeth and feeling sorry for themselves about now."

"Shame to you!" mocked Jaxie. "You only want revenge."

"I? Not at all. I've had my revenge, and it is sweet. Didn't her irritability give me your company? That's almost heaping coals of fire

"Aren't you the clever detective though? I suppose you missed your calling in life and became an insurance agent, for which the world will always be the loser in unsolved crimes and too many lapsed insurance policies."

"If I were a detective, I should consider myself fortunate to be assigned to a case that would involve meeting you. And whatever my vacation, I should like to devote any leisure time talking with an interesting person like you." His smile flashed.

"Which reminds me that you have work to do, and so have I. I shall try not to disturb you."

She was adjusting the lead in a silver pencil and did not look up when he said, "I like to be disturbed by anyone so disturbing as you are."

But she was conscious of the fact that rose from her throat to cheeks and of a consternation enabled her to reply evenly, "I don't behave, you can't work in my table." Her eyes were shining though, when she raised them to meet his glance, and for a moment he experienced a pleasant sensation as of being lost in a flood of dancing light.

"Then I'll promise to be very good," he declared soberly, and proved it by taking up his work without another word.

RICKEY UNRUFFLED BY MINOR LEAGUE LOSSES

State High School Board To Divide Receipts From Recent Basketball Event

Athletic Body to Cut Pretty Fair-Sized Melon Among Teams Which Competed In Ohio Scholastic Tourney; Finalists Get Most

COLUMBUS, March 26—The state high school board of athletic control will decide next Friday night, as an "All Fools' day" present, just what bonuses and adjusted compensation should be paid the 32 teams in the recent state basketball wars.

H. R. Townsend, state athletic commissioner, said today the board would get together the evening of April 1 to "slice up a pretty fair-sized melon," consisting of a portion of the state athletic association's share of receipts from county, sectional, district and the state cage meets.

The commissioner said that about $6,000 would be divided among the teams, most of it going to state tournament entrants, and some going back to teams eliminated in district play.

Last year's total receipts from county, sectional and district play were about $130,000, and Townsend said he expects this year's total to be at least 25 percent higher. This year's state meet drew about $16,500, an all-time high.

The state association takes all the final tournament funds, a maximum of $35 from the county meets, and "cuts" into the sectional and district tourney receipts on a graduated basis starting at four per cent on receipts under $300 and going up one per cent for each additional $100. As an illustration, Townsend cited that the central district Class B meet at Westerville drew about $3,000, of which the state association received about $1,000.

Townsend said the state board was "perfectly satisfied" with the present method of handling the state tournament over a three-day stretch in a single week, and would not consider stretching it to a four-day event played on two consecutive week-ends.

"The tournament is now 'tops,'" the commissioner said, "and I'm sure no one wants to see it changed especially the state board and myself. The expense of bringing the teams back for a second week-end of play would be prohibitive, and I doubt if the school officials would care to have the students away from home so much."

Cleveland was chosen for the 39th annual A. B. C. show by a surprisingly one-sided vote of 236 to 231. John Davies of Columbus, O., was elected president of the organization to succeed Al Lattin of New York.

Cleveland will be host to the A. B. C. classic next year for the third time in the city's history. The event will be staged in Public Hall and is expected to bring more than $1,500,000 to the Sixth City.

Breezy Briefs Of Sport From Briez To You

Henry Picard, who's playing with a bad left thumb, still is this corner's golfer. . . yesterday in the North and South he took five puts on the fourth hole, but was one under par at the 17th and finished with a 73. . . Paul Runyan said his 73 was one of the best rounds of his career because he was in so many bunkers. . . Ted Luther, the Pittsburgh pro, put on a putting exhibition for the gallery. . . he one-putted no less than 13 greens for his 69.

The five Fry brothers of San Francisco shortly will play a "brothers' championship" with the Turnesa brothers of New York. The match will be played by telegraph. . . the Frys will do their stuff on a San Francisco course and the Turnesas will play over the Lakeville layout at Great Neck, L. I. . . Frank Moore of Mamaroneck, N. Y., who finished well up in the North and South yesterday, could have had an infidel job wanted it.

Jimmy McLarnin, one of the best scrappers in his day, has gone in for golf and is now a six handicap man at the Swanky Holly Hill course in Hollywood, Cal. . . Jimmy swears he'll never fight again. . . no matter what the scores show, the golfer showing the best form here is Harry Cooper. . . there is a real stylist for you. Over at Chapel Hill, seat of the University of North Carolina, they're holding a pow-wow to present to the university a mammoth $850,000 gymnasium and swimming pool, which will give the university one of the largest plants in the south.

BY SID FEDER

(Pinch-Hitting for Eddie Briez)
NEW YORK, March 26—The joke, folks, is strictly on blue-blooded British racing today. . . they wouldn't list Man O'War in the English stud book because his ancestors weren't in it. . . so, what? . . . so along comes Big Red's little boy, Battleship, to cop the No. 1 English racing event—the Grand National. . . but if Man O'War had a sleeve, he'd be laughing at the failing of Battleship. . . the failing of Battleship is on the way to the coast in a single with Chuck Crowell in Los Angeles April 19. . . but what he's really after is Maxie Baer's scalp—take Manager Paul Damski's word for it. . . figures he got a run-around.

Tee Hee Dept.: Joe Dimaggio says the reason he didn't return his contract to the Yanks—signed or unsigned—was because he lost it moving to a new house. . . word from the coast says Gerry Walker, who's camp is ever, has the White Sox camp in stitches. . . they clocked Hank Greenberg in 15 seconds flat for the 120-yard trip around the bases at Lakehead the other day. . . which is really picking 'em up and laying 'em down. . . Detroit Tigers' camp followers say Rudy York is still far from a classy catching product. . . but, boy, can he sock 'em. . . along fight alley, the latest is that Schmeling-Louis will go to Chicago if Mike Jacobs can swing Soiders Field, which may or may not be one reason Der Moxie will start his training at French Lick Springs, Ind. . . Old Papa Jesse Haines has entered politics in Montgomery county, Ohio. . . Auburn can't figure out what's happening to the athletic captains down there. . . Andy Curlee of the basketball team quit school; Bill Ellis (track) and Miller Herrin (polo) are out for scholastic difficulties. . . and now Captain Billy Hitchcock of the baseballers is having a knee operation and will be sidelined for the season.

Funny-bone ticklers from the grapefruit belt: Howard Lane, Nashville rookie, kayoed himself with his own foul pit in batting practice at Tallahassee. . . and Pitching Rookie Walter Higbe started out three times from his North Carolina home for the White Sox camp in California, but never made it. . . seems he got as far as Chicago once and turned back because his car was ill. . . next, he reached Knoxville and took sick himself. . . third time he made Spartanburg, S. C. . . As far as Jimmy Dykes is concerned, Mr. Higbe is going to find "three strikes is out"—of the White Sox squad.

CRACK RUNNERS IN RELAY MEET

Cunningham Leads Track Stars In Chicago Indoor Meet

CHICAGO, March 26—Paced by Glenn Cunningham, the world's finest mile runner, a band of champions from all parts of the country will assemble tonight for another assault on the records in the second annual Chicago Daily News relay meet at the international amphitheater.

Cunningham, who recently ran the mile in 4:04.4, will make his record smashing in the famous bankers' mile against Wisconsin's fast-comer Charles Fenske, the Big Ten champion; Greg Rice, Notre Dame's national collegiate titleholder, Gene Benzke, formerly of the University of Pennsylvania, and Little Archie San Romani, who beat Cunningham in the bankers' test last year.

The brilliant Cunningham has won 14 races this year on the boards. His 4:04.4 performance at Dartmouth a month ago being the greatest mile ever run. He has predicted that Fenske will offer the stiffest opposition he has had this season, and with the mile runners on a new track, many observers look for another mile record.

GIANTS' HURLER TRAINING WITH SCHOOL SQUAD

Clyde Castleman Takes Workouts At Nashville, Tenn.

BATON ROUGE, La., March 26—The New York Giants' pitching prospects, a trifle off color now, may look better if Clyde Castleman's training methods work out. Although he has refused to come to camp and train according to Manager Bill Terry's ideas, the Giants have heard Castleman is working out with a high school team at Nashville. And Terry has admitted he might forgive the hurler if he needs him badly enough.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. — The New York Yankees are discovering that young Joe Gordon is a little short of perfection as a second baseman. One of his bad habits is to hold onto the ball and run a few steps while relaying a throw from the outfield and the Yanks fear smart base runners will notice it and beat his throws to the plate.

BATON ROUGE, La. — Hugh Alexander, young outfielder who came came up from Springfield, O., last fall, won't be out of a job with the Cleveland Indians although the loss of his hand in an accident last winter cost him a chance to play. Alexander said the Tribe gave him a job as a scout and volunteered to pay the $1,600 bonus he had been promised if he could stick with the club this season.

LAKELEND, Fla. — Here's Manager Bill McKechnie's cure for the Cincinnati Reds' exhibition game defeats: "Some of the boys will have to do a better job of hitting with men on the bases or they'll find themselves sitting on the wood." To translate, the "wood" is the bench and the "bricks" are the bases, where the Reds had 16 men left in yesterday's game with Brooklyn.

LAKELEND, Fla. — Schoolboy Rowe, still the big mystery of the Detroit Tigers camp as he stepped out for a second test against Cincinnati, claims his arm is as good as ever. After giving up five hits Wednesday he said Coach Del Baker had advised him not to bear down, adding "I had as much stuff as I ever had in my life."

SALEM ANGLERS GET BIG CATCH

E. I. Kille, W. L. Fuels Land 47 Kingfish During Florida Trip

SARASOTA, Fla., March 26—E. I. Kille and W. L. Fuels of Salem, now know what it means to be fishermen. In one day's trip off Sarasota shores they landed 47 kingfish.

Fishing off Capt. L. H. Joy's craft in the Gulf of Mexico, they were accompanied by T. E. Taylor, Columbus, and Phil Carpenter of New York City. The catch was unloaded at the city dock while hundreds of not-so-lucky spectators watched and fat pelicans gorged themselves with cast-off kingfish heads at the end of pier slips.

HTNSDALE, Mont.—Oscar Carlson, retired farmer, lost a good pocket knife while threshing wheat 32 years ago on the prairie land near Williston. The knife was returned to Carlson the other day by a former neighbor who found it.

Theater Attractions

Nelson Eddy and Jeanette MacDonald in a scene from "Girl of the Golden West", which will be the attraction at the State three days next week, beginning Sunday.

Two musical pictures are booked for next week at the State—the newest Jeanette MacDonald and Nelson Eddy co-starring film, "Girl of the Golden West," and Deanna Durbin's latest film, "Mad About Music."

The first musical will show Sunday through Tuesday. Featured in the large supporting cast are Leo Carrillo, Walter Pidgeon, Bud- dy Ebsen, Leonard Penn, Priscilla Lawson, H. B. Warner and Cliff Edwards.

Operates Saloon
The story takes place in the early days of California's settlement. Miss MacDonald is left a saloon by her father and she continues to operate it after his death. Eddy plays the role of a Mexican bandit, who meets and falls in love with Miss MacDonald. Their love affair is complicated by the fact that he is an outlaw and by Walter Pidgeon, sheriff, who also loves Miss MacDonald.

The mystery, "Arsene Lupin Returns," featuring Warren Williams and Virginia Bruce, is the Wednesday only film at the State.

"Mad About Music" is the last of the week's attraction at the State theater. Herbert Marshall and Deanna Durbin head a large cast which includes Gail Patrick, Arthur Treacher, Willa Frawley, Franklin Pangborn, Elizabeth Risdon and others.

The Grand shows a double bill Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. The first picture is "A Slight Case of Murder" which has been rated the best mystery-comedy of the season. Edward G. Robinson plays a reformed gangster who accidentally gets the bodies of a half dozen of his rival gangsters dumped in his home. Jane Bryan, Allen Jenkins, Ruth Donnelly and Willard Parker have supporting roles.

Jones Family Film
The second feature is a new Jones Family adventure "Love on a Budget," with the regular "family" cast.

Beverly Roberts and Dick Purcell, with Gloria Blondell and Gordon Oliver head the cast of "Daredevil Drivers," which is the first number on a double feature Wednesday and Thursday at the Grand.

The other picture is a musical, "Night Spot." Parkyakarus, Allan Lane, Gordon Jones and Joan Woodbury have the featured parts.

More adventures of the popular western character, Hopalong Cassidy, come to the Grand Friday and Saturday in "Partners of the Plains." William Boyd, Russell Hayden, Gwen Gaze and Harvey also placed the blame on Barnes within the last week.

He was sent to the Boys' Industrial school when he was 14 years old and served seven years there as a juvenile delinquent. Later, he served 12 years in the state reformatory on two sentences for larceny.

20 Hear Statement
The 20th man to die in Ohio's electric chair, Jones read his statement before about 20 persons in the small, brick death house. Warden J. C. Woodard admitted only witnesses and newspaper men eligible under the law, to enter.

Jones expressed regret that he had done nothing to make things lighter; better for those who come after.

In conclusion, maintaining that he was being put to death wrongfully, Jones said "the only thing the state has succeeded in doing is to break a girl's heart." He referred to an 18-year-old Springfield girl who, he said was ready to marry him.

A few hours before he died Jones ate a chicken dinner in the company of a prisoner cousin, Harold C. Jones, sentenced from Licking county in December, 1936, to serve a 2 to 22-year term for burglary and larceny.

The Rev. K. E. Wall, prison chaplain, was with Jones in his last hour and described him as perhaps "the most philosophical person I have ever seen in such circumstances."

"He made his peace with his Maker," Rev. Wall said. "He said he realized there was nobody in the cell but God and him, and that there was no use to pretend any longer."

Warden Woodard said no one had claimed Jones' body and that it probably would be buried at the state's expense.

DAVEY TO OPEN IN YOUNGSTOWN

Governor May Start Campaign for Third Term Next Week

Following Monday, it was believed that Davey would appear in nearly all the state's 88 counties during his campaign.

Challenge to CIO

Selection of Youngstown as regarded as a challenge to the Committee for Industrial Organization, which has declared it would seek to defeat him if he again sought the governorship. The labor group's opposition was based on Davey's use of troops to reopen strike-bound steel plants. The state was sponsored by the Steel Workers' Organizing Committee, a CIO affiliate.

Davey's office announced that the governor would continue indefinitely his weekly broadcasts. Under original plans, they would have been concluded with the one next Monday night.

The only candidate to announce for the Republican gubernatorial nomination was John W. Bricker, former attorney general, and so far there has been no indication he would be opposed. He won the nomination two years ago but lost to Davey in the general election.

Enactment of the broad reorganization program would give the administration its fourth major law of the session. Already, the farm, housing and emergency relief bills have won legislative approval.

Tax Bill Changes

The next big administrative bill—tax revision—has undergone a week's buffeting in the senate finance committee and now bears little resemblance to the revenue measure approved by the house.

The main tax fight probably will center in a joint conference committee, which will meet to adjust differences between the senate and house bills.

The billion-dollar naval expansion bill, which already has house approval, also is expected to encounter heavy going in the senate, although most observers expect its eventual approval.

Leaders agreed that the wage and hour bill, which administration followers in the house are seeking to revive, stands only a 50-50 chance of enactment at this session.

Congressional leaders still are hopeful that the session will end between May 15 and June 1.
